

The Bretton Lodges which stood proudly where the A55 expressway now runs. If you walk over the bridge by the waterworks, the lodges stood just underneath the right side of the bridge at the Kinnerton end. They were at the Western entrance to the Eaton Estate. The small photos were from about 1979 and the snowy photograph was taken in 1981 when the lodges were demolished. Talk to Phillip for stories about when the Holland family lived in the lodges.
