

Gracie Fields Here to Sing

Miss Gracie Fields and her husband, Mr. Boris Alperovich, arrived in London last night from Capri. It was, Miss Fields recalled, a year since her last visit, "and lots have happened in that time." She will return to Capri next week. During her stay she plans to sing at a midnight matinee in aid of the Lynmouth Flood Disaster Fund.

Gracie is back—but not for long

After being away from London for four and a half years, stage, radio and screen star Gracie Fields has come back—for a couple of days. Here, you see her cracking a joke with a taxi driver in Trafalgar-square yesterday. She returns to Italy today, but, she says, she'll be back to do a farewell tour of England before retiring to her home on the Is le of Capri.
