

The pictures on these pages are historic; but they are part of a living legend. And the operative word there is "living." Gracie Fields, just before coming to Australia for her present tour, took a quick concert-performance swing through Canada. Variety reported the opening concert was not only a sell-out, but that admissions totalled 200 more than the registered capacity of the auditorium. The other concerts were on the same high level.

After her dates in Sydney, Melbourne, Brisbane and Adelaide, Gracie goes on to New Zealand, to play the major centres there.

Isador Goodman (see opposite) will perform with her throughout the tour.

During her New Zealand tour, Gracie of course visited Rotarura, was keenly interested in the tourist sights, and made music with the Maoris. Obviously, the pleasure was mutual.
